THIRTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME 26th June 2016

Dear friends,

Earlier this month the nation came together to give thanks for the Queen's 90th birthday. Last week the country was shocked by the brutal murder of the M.P. Jo Cox. In these two very different women we see fine examples of what it is to be committed. The Queen, during a reign of sixty four years, has been unswerving in the duties of her high office. Mrs Cox crammed into her all too brief life a passion for social justice as well as dedication to her own family. Commitment in whatever walk of life demands perseverance and sacrifice. Those who show commitment to their calling do not give up when the going gets tough.

Today's gospel is all about commitment. Jesus reminds us that the cost of discipleship is very high and he does not water down the demands on those who would follow his example. Those without a sense of commitment have no scruple about flitting from one thing to another, changing jobs at a whim. The committed can be relied on to stay the course. Marriage requires commitment: so does priesthood. The vocations of nursing and teaching are at their best when those involved think not in terms of a career but rather in service to the common good.

Wednesday next is the solemn feast of Saints Peter and Paul. It is a holy day of obligation and we don't have very many of those these days. The Masses here will be at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.

God bless you all
