THIRTY-SECOND SUNDAY in ORDINARY TIME A 12 November 2017

Dear friends,

“We want you to be quite certain about those who have died, to make sure you do not grieve about them, like the other people who have no hope”(1Thess.4:13-18). November is a time of remembrance when we pray for the dead. In this month we offer prayers and the Mass for those who have died and gone before us to our Lord. We mourn in remembering loved ones who have died, but there is consolation and hope for all who have faith in Christ, and his resurrection from the dead. We believe that those who lived lives of faith, loving God and neighbour, are now safe in God's loving care. St Paul tells the first Christians and ourselves, to be certain in faith “about those who have died, and to make sure we do not grieve about them like the people who have no hope” of a glorious future life with God.

The second part of St Paul's letter today looks to the second coming of Christ at the end of time and the end of our own life. Paul expected this to happen in his lifetime, but later changed his view on the timing of the Lord's return. He wanted people to prepare to meet the Lord by carrying out their responsibilities and duties each day, and not to waste the time, talents or opportunities they have, to serve God and each other in love. We can all be challenged on how we use our opportunities, time and talents to give glory of God by serving other people! In that sense, we need to be like the wise virgins, who were watchful and ready to help those in need. That was shown in a quiet but powerful way by our Lady, at the wedding feast in Cana; as she sees that “they have no wine”, she brings the people's needs to her son. We can bring people's needs to our Lord in our prayer, as we ask him to help the living with their various needs, and to bring those who have died to share his glory in heaven.

The reading from the Book of Wisdom (6:12-16) speaks of wisdom of God, which should be our guide. Our decisions should be shaped by God's wisdom, which gives us a better understanding of God and human nature. It helps us live in a ways which give glory to God, brings happiness to others and fulfilment to ourselves.

May the Holy Spirit and his wisdom be with you always to guide you. Fr John
