SECOND SUNDAY: ORDINARY TIME B DAY of PRAYER FOR PEACE

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

14th January 2018

Does God see us as listeners or speakers?

In today's First Reading from Samuel, we heard the story of the Lord calling Samuel, who failed, at first, to recognise that God was speaking to him; but he listened again and then responded 'Speak Lord, your servant is listening'. What a powerful message this has for each of us. How often do we pray to the Lord, again and again, for some help or favour that we wish we or someone we know could receive from God? But on the other hand, how often do we pray silently and try to listen to the Lord speaking to us? – Not so often, I suggest. Do we realise that we might be encouraged better to follow God's ways by listening attentively to the thoughts he implants in our conscience during periods of 'silent prayer'. As the Psalmist says in Psalm 39: 'I waited, I waited for the Lord and he stooped down to me and I said 'Here I am, Lord! I come to do your will'. Our fervent message to God should always be 'Speak, Lord; your servant is listening'.

As we reflect upon today's Gospel Reading and the growth of Christianity to 1.5 billion souls since the time of Jesus, we surely cannot fail to be amazed, at the power of Jesus in encouraging his Kingdom on earth to grow. Each of us has been allocated a specific task by God to encourage the growth of his Kingdom by the way in which we lead our lives. It is upon each of us that Jesus depends to uphold good and proper values in life and to encourage others to do the same. We might ask 'what more could I do' or 'am I doing everything the Lord requires of me in the way in which he wants me to spread the word'? A good starting point for such a review would be to go for a few minutes each day to a quiet place and address God with the words: 'Here I am, Lord, Please speak to me, I am listening. What do you wish me to do?' And then to listen for God's reply.

God bless.

Deacon Duncan

FIRST HOLY COMMUNIONS IN 2018: The next preparation session for the children is on Wednesday 17th January at 5.45pm in Church.
